CAMPAIGN ALLEGATIONS

Friends of Hiram Johnson will realize before the campaign is over that they are making an enormous blunder in following the present campaign of alert, throwing against all candidates, regardless of party affiliation. The alert is now that much money is used and that millions are pledged to elect the desired man to fill the White House. Senator Borah has been the most active in this culminating process of alertism in the hope that the practice will succeed in driving all opponents and leave Hiram as the only choice of the republican party. The slogan is openly made that General Wood and Senator Lowden may be the backbone of the big interests, comprising the war profiteers who are pictured as eager to assist any of the republican candidates except Hiram safety suspect. The proposition is absurd on the face of it, especially in view of the fact that exposure of the profiteers has all along plagued the republican majority in congress and that through the action of this unprofitable millions of dollars were saved to the treasury and their restitution of other millions is a foregone conclusion. The personal records of soldier Lowden and Wood is the most fitting material for these mud flingers. Neither man has ever been identified with the vested interested and blotted trusts and it is not reasonable to presume that they are going to turn over and defile their characters in the full glare of a campaign. It is on them to formulate charges and another time to prove wild statements. If any one is guilty of courting machine methods it is Hiram Johnson who has always relied on machine tactics to carry him through.

TRUST LAWS SET ASIDE

It is part of acquisitiveness, unscrupulousness. Attorney General Palmer, a democratic candidate for the presidential nomination should find no comfort in discovering that there is many a slip between the cup and the lip. At the outset of his presidential aspirations Mr. Palmer began by tiring the bushes in the hope of stirring up enough excitement to focus public interest on himself as the coming reformer. He threw his hat in the ring with the explanation that he was the old boy in the wood and down in the glass-trust forest and had all other adversaries of the infamous system of trade combinations who had taken back seat when his machine got into action. Three months have passed since that memorable assertion and to set us another version of the Wilson pro-laboring policy is used in the merciless public gaze. The trusts are doing business at the same old stand and the A.M.A. who defied the moneyed powers has shrunk to a cowering tool who fears to get into trouble. Nothing can be done, according to Mr. Palmer and rest fail. The explanation for this course which is a distinct change in his last month's attitude is the far-fetched statement that for action of the supreme court has raised fresh issues that give to a hemisphere in order to determine what should be done. The attorney general has not relinquished the hope of finally bringing the trusts under subjection of the law but the policy of his host in waiting wearily for something to transpire fits the present situation. To prosecute the trusts on the threshold of a campaign would invite reprisals and furnish a dangerous instrument for the candidates to play with. It is the same Mitchell Palmer who declared three months ago that whole fleets of soviet ships would be steaming from the shores of America for distant lands engaged in recruiting undesirable citizens to their interests. One possibility held that was the end of the campaign which fixed out like a dimly visible star. The odds are with us still and the department of justice does not seem to be making any great headway in getting hold of the haven of socialism at Ellis Island where officials swear to be leagued with the common enemy. If the administration is in earnest in expelling this class from our shores, some day will be found for expelling the movement which at the pace of rats of progress will be consummated some time in the twenty-first century. This is another way of stalling for time just after the presidential conventions are over and the future political prospects of the leading democratic candidate will be more or less known. The attorney general is playing both sides of the house against the middle and the plain American citizens must hide their faces until more known definitely what are the plans of the White House in mind.

DEMOCRATIC DISH OF CROW

Hoover has concluded that he will be a candidate for the presidential nomination—provided the nomination comes from the republican party. That's a knockout for his friends the dems—rats who have organized his cause & continue in their party leader and who have boasted that he is the only available leader to serve the country in its hour of trial. The official announcement is a regular old soldiers' tale—the administration whose forces have been busy organizing corrupt state influence the Jones of the universal food dispensary to quell the doctored oil of the nation for the next four years. The new state marking has been doing the blocking and bragging on the assumption that the spirit of the food administration was a map of the gaudy political preferences—republican campaign managers have maintained. They had nothing to say since there was no means before them to demand a statement and therefore they have neither a disclaimer nor an avowal to make. The republican party has ample material from which to choose candidates and the national chairman is not taking sides with any of the several candidates. The man who receives the nomination of the party in convention will receive the unequivocal support of every republican in the country and thousands of good democrats who believe that a change in the administration is essential to the salvation of the nation. Under the circumstances the nomination of Hoover would not sit well on the shoulders of the solid south which would have a fit of indignation over overthrowing a wish of crook served up with all the trimmings that the immature boasting of the party supplies. The flat statement of Mr. Hoover that he is a republican and will not accept the nomination from other than the republican party will have the effect of a 75 centimeter gun pounding on the bulwarks of the Wilson following in Washington. With four other candidates from their own party in the field it is paradoxical that the only man favored by the constructive statesmen of democracy is an avowed republican. The selection of Hoover is a direct slap at the organization which brought about the seating of Wilson and the creation of a race of piratical profiteers who extorted billions from the nation's treasury.

Senator Henderson is engaged in his biennial pastime of distributing seeds to secure votes from the farming element. As the seeds are paid for by the taxpayers it does seem as though the like lawyer is using the public funds to reduce the high cost of campaigning.

DEAD GLORIES OF BIG SEAPORT

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Haining today may be described as an imposing monument to the dead heroes of the German merchant marine, according to Count Francis R. Stewart, who was detailed by the American commission in Berlin to investigate conditions at the former imperial German port for that body's report from Mr. Stewart detailing the results of his inquiry has just reached the department of commerce.

"A short trip through the harbor quickly disclosed what a graveyard it is," the count reported. "Lines and barges are tied as far as the eye can see.
